1. On behalf of the members of CDC-29, I want to thank you for talking with them on 16 September about the Office of the DCI and the Director himself. Your discussion provided participants a candid view of activities within the Agency and among Intelligence Community members.

MEMORANDUM FOR: Director of Central Intelligence

FROM: R. E. Hineman
Deputy Director for Science and Technology

SUBJECT: Invitation to Brief the DS&T Career
Development Course

1. I want to extend an invitation for you to meet with the graduating members of the 29th DS&T Career Development Course on the morning of 4 December 1985. If this day is not convenient, another date can be arranged to accommodate your schedule.

2. During this three-month course, participants will have met with many key managers of this Agency and other organizations within the Intelligence Community. The course provides a comprehensive overview of the missions and programs of the DS&T and each of the other Directorates. It focuses on inter-relationships with other Government agencies, military organizations, and private industry, and particular emphasis is placed throughout on scientific and technical concerns.

3. Course members would be keenly interested in your views on major issues and challenges concerning the Agency. The meeting would be an appropriate highlight at the conclusion of CDC-29.

4. I appreciate your consideration. Please ask your secretary to contact Course Director [redacted] to advise if you will be able to accept this invitation.
